1 PURPOSE

AMS Security provides security services at client sites where security personnel may be required to use body-worn cameras (BWCs). This policy ensures that the use of BWCs by AMS Security Officers is lawful, consistent, and professionally managed in compliance with applicable South Australian and Commonwealth legislation.

This policy establishes mandatory requirements for when cameras must be worn and activated, the mandatory red recording badge that must accompany every camera deployment, procedures for data storage, retention, access, disclosure, and chain of custody, and the consequences of non-compliance.

BWCs serve to protect officers, the public, and AMS Security by providing objective evidence for investigations, insurance claims, legal proceedings, and public liability matters.

2 SCOPE

This policy applies to all AMS Security Officers. It covers:

- All sites where AMS Security has supplied operational body-worn cameras.
- All incidents involving a member of the public, regardless of site or whether a camera has been specifically assigned to that post.
- All public liability jobs attended by AMS Security Officers.
- All data captured by BWCs, including video footage and audio recordings.

This policy must be read in conjunction with:

- OP011 — Terrorism Response Procedure
- OP017 — Uniform & PPE Policy
- OP008 — Incident Reporting
- WHS 001 — Work Health & Safety & Injury Management Program

3 LEGISLATIVE COMPLIANCE

All use of BWCs by AMS Security Officers must comply with the following legislation. Officers are required to understand their obligations under each Act.

SA LEGISLATION	Surveillance Devices Act 2016 (SA): Regulates the use of optical and listening/surveillance devices. Officers must not record private conversations unless lawfully permitted. Covert recording is prohibited. Recordings must only be used for lawful purposes. Work Health and Safety Act 2012 (SA) — s.19: AMS Security, as a PCBU, must ensure the health and safety of workers so far as is reasonably practicable. BWCs are a risk control measure for officers exposed to workplace violence, aggression, and public-facing hazards. Their use forms part of AMS Security's risk management obligations. Security and Investigation Industry Act 1995 (SA): Licensed security officers must operate BWCs lawfully, professionally, and within the scope of their licence. Misuse of recording equipment may constitute grounds for licence review or revocation. Evidence Act 1929 (SA): Procedures governing footage capture, storage, and chain of custody must maintain the integrity of recordings so they may be admitted as evidence in criminal or civil proceedings. Any tampering renders footage inadmissible and constitutes a criminal offence.

State Records Act 1997 (SA): Applies where AMS Security provides services on government premises. Recordings may constitute official records and must be managed accordingly.

CWLTH LEGISLATION

Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) & Australian Privacy Principles (APPs): Personal information captured by BWCs must be collected for a lawful purpose, stored securely, accessed only by authorised persons, and destroyed when no longer required. Individuals generally have a right to know they are being recorded and to access footage of themselves, subject to applicable exemptions.

Criminal Code Act 1995 (Cth): Certain offences relating to unlawful surveillance, data interception, or the misuse of surveillance material may attract federal criminal liability in addition to state-based liability.

Work Health and Safety Act 2011 (Cth): Applies to AMS Security operations conducted on Commonwealth-regulated sites. BWC use as a safety control measure must comply with Commonwealth WHS obligations where applicable.

4 MANDATORY REQUIREMENTS

4.1 Mandatory BWC Wearing at Sites with Operational Cameras

MANDATORY: All AMS Security Officers must wear a body-worn camera at all sites where AMS Security has supplied an operational camera. This requirement applies for the full duration of the officer's shift. It is not optional.

The following requirements apply:

- Officers must don the BWC as part of their pre-shift preparation before commencing duty.
- The BWC must be worn correctly — positioned on the chest, facing forward, clearly visible, and securely fastened throughout the shift.
- If a BWC assigned to an officer is faulty, has a flat battery, or is otherwise not in working order, the officer must report this to their Supervisor or AMS Management immediately before commencing duty. A replacement must be sourced where available. The fault must be documented.
- Officers must not commence or continue a shift at a BWC-equipped site without a functioning camera unless directed by AMS Management.
- Personal body cameras or recording devices are not permitted as substitutes for AMS-issued BWCs.

4.2 Mandatory Red Recording Badge

MANDATORY: The AMS red recording badge MUST be worn at all times when a body-worn camera is being worn on duty, unless AMS Management has specifically advised otherwise in writing for a particular site or deployment.

The red recording badge serves as a visible notification to the public that recording is in progress. This is an important transparency and legal compliance measure under the Surveillance Devices Act 2016 (SA). The following requirements apply:

- The badge must be clipped in a clearly visible position alongside or adjacent to the camera on the officer's chest.
- The badge must not be obscured by clothing, a jacket, or any other item.
- Officers who attend duty at a BWC-equipped site and cannot locate a red badge must report this to their Supervisor immediately.
- Wearing the camera without the badge (other than where directed by AMS Management) constitutes a breach of this policy and may result in disciplinary action.

AMS Security Red Recording Badge — must be worn with all BWC deployments

4.3 Mandatory Camera Activation

MANDATORY: Officers MUST activate their body-worn camera immediately upon attending any of the trigger situations listed below. Failure to activate without a legitimate reason is a breach of this policy and may have serious evidentiary, insurance, and disciplinary consequences.

Officers must activate their BWC immediately when attending any of the following:

- Any public liability job — including slip/trip/fall incidents, property damage claims, or any situation where AMS Security or the client site may be exposed to a claim.
- Any incident involving a member of the public — including disputes, ejections, detainments, welfare checks, crowd control, or any interaction that may later be subject to complaint, investigation, or legal proceedings.
- Shoplifter or theft detainment — from the moment of initial observation through to handover to police or release.
- Aggressive, threatening, or abusive behaviour — including verbal threats, physical aggression, or any situation where the officer feels unsafe.
- Intoxicated or drug-affected individuals — particularly when removal or police involvement is required.
- Physical altercations or fighting — activate immediately upon becoming aware of the incident.
- First aid or medical emergencies — to document the scene, the officer's response, and any instructions given.

- Suspected criminal activity — including trespass, vandalism, drug use, or any other suspected offence.
- Alarm responses — when responding to any triggered alarm, internal or external.
- Any situation where evidence may be required — for evidentiary, insurance, legal, or any other purpose. If in doubt, activate.

BWC footage from these trigger events may be required for:

- Police investigations and criminal prosecutions.
- Insurance claims and public liability proceedings.
- Internal AMS Security investigations and disciplinary matters.
- Civil litigation involving AMS Security, the client site, or third parties.
- Coronial inquiries or other regulatory proceedings.

NOTIFICATION	Where it is safe and practical to do so, officers should inform the subject that recording is in progress by stating: "This interaction is being recorded on a body-worn camera." The red badge provides passive notification; verbal notification provides an additional layer of transparency and may de-escalate situations. Officers must use their judgement — verbal notification is not required where it would create a safety risk.

5 DATA STORAGE AND RETENTION

All BWC footage is the property of AMS Security and must be managed in accordance with this policy and applicable privacy legislation.

- End of shift: All footage must be uploaded from the camera's microSD card to the secure AMS Security hard drive at the completion of each shift, before the officer leaves the site or AMS premises.
- Filing: Footage must be filed in the correct year/month/site folder structure on the secure drive. Misfiled footage constitutes a records management failure.
- Secure storage: Hard drives are stored securely at AMS Security headquarters and are subject to regular audit. Access is restricted to authorised personnel only.
- Retention period: Recordings must be retained for a minimum of 12 months, or longer where required for an ongoing investigation, legal proceeding, insurance matter, or contractual obligation. Where a specific retention period is mandated by contract (e.g. government sites under the State Records Act 1997 (SA)), that period takes precedence.
- Destruction: Footage must be securely destroyed or de-identified at the end of the applicable retention period, in accordance with the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) and relevant AMS Security procedures.
- Incident footage: Any footage related to a known or anticipated legal proceeding, insurance claim, police investigation, or disciplinary matter must be flagged, preserved, and must NOT be destroyed regardless of any standard retention period, until written clearance is given by AMS Management or its legal advisers.

6 ACCESS, RELEASE AND CHAIN OF CUSTODY

Access to BWC footage is strictly limited. The following authorised parties may access footage where they have a legitimate operational, legal, or regulatory need:

- SAPOL (South Australia Police) — pursuant to a lawful request or order.
- Site Centre Management — for incidents occurring at their site, subject to privacy obligations.
- AMS Security Management — for operational, disciplinary, or legal purposes.
- SafeWork SA or other regulatory authorities — for WHS investigations or notifiable incident inquiries.
- Insurance investigators or legal representatives — for claims or proceedings in which AMS Security or the site are involved.
- Other authorised third parties — only with written approval from AMS Security Management.

RELEASE PROCEDURE	Body Camera Footage Release Form: A completed release form is required for EVERY disclosure of footage to any party outside AMS Security, without exception. The form must be retained on file. Chain of Custody Record: Every handling of footage must be documented: who accessed it, when, for what purpose, how it was transferred (physical drive or secure electronic means), and to whom it was released. Unauthorised release: No officer may copy, share, upload to any platform, or otherwise release footage outside AMS procedures. Doing so may constitute a criminal offence under the Surveillance Devices Act 2016 (SA) and the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth), in addition to resulting in disciplinary action.

7 PRE-SHIFT CHECKS

Before commencing duty at any site where a BWC is assigned, officers must complete the following checks and confirm they are satisfied that the camera is operational:

1. Battery is fully charged.
2. Date and time settings are correct.
3. Lens is clean and unobstructed.
4. Camera is recording and stopping correctly (test activation).
5. Camera is correctly positioned — chest-mounted, facing forward, securely seated.
6. Red recording badge is clipped on and clearly visible.
7. Any footage from a previous shift has been cleared/uploaded.

Any fault or deficiency identified during pre-shift checks must be reported to the Supervisor immediately. The officer must not commence duty at a BWC-equipped site with a faulty or non-operational camera unless AMS Management specifically directs otherwise. The fault must be recorded in the site log or incident report system.

8 TRAINING

All AMS Security Officers authorised to use BWCs must receive and acknowledge training in the following before their first deployment at a BWC-equipped site:

- The requirements of this policy, including all mandatory activation triggers.
- Relevant legislation: Surveillance Devices Act 2016 (SA), Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) & APPs, Evidence Act 1929 (SA), WHS Act 2012 (SA).
- Correct operation, fitting, and pre-shift checking of the assigned BWC model.
- Correct use, positioning, and purpose of the red recording badge.
- Evidence management, data storage procedures, and chain of custody requirements.
- Verbal notification procedure and situational discretion.
- Reporting obligations for faults, incidents, and footage requests.

Training records must be forwarded to:

AMS Training and Compliance Manager — compliance@ams-security.com.au

9 NON-COMPLIANCE AND DISCIPLINARY ACTION

Compliance with this policy is mandatory. The following conduct constitutes a breach of this policy and may result in disciplinary action:

- Failing to wear an assigned BWC at a BWC-equipped site without authorisation.
- Failing to wear the red recording badge when a BWC is worn.
- Failing to activate the camera at a mandatory trigger event.
- Deactivating the camera during an active incident without authorisation.
- Tampering with, deleting, altering, or withholding footage.
- Copying, sharing, or releasing footage outside AMS procedures.
- Using a personal device to record duty activities.
- Failing to complete end-of-shift upload procedures.
- Providing false information about camera use or footage.

⚠ DISCIPLINARY ACTION	Breaches of this policy may result in: formal written warning; removal from site; suspension; or termination of employment — depending on the severity and circumstances of the breach. Serious breaches — particularly tampering with footage, unlawful disclosure, or covert recording — may also be referred to SAPOL and may result in criminal charges under the Surveillance Devices Act 2016 (SA), Privacy Act 1988 (Cth), or other applicable legislation.

10 QUICK REFERENCE CARD

The table below summarises the key requirements for BWC use. Officers should be familiar with all items before commencing duty at a BWC-equipped site.

PHASE	MANDATORY ACTIONS	PROHIBITED
BEFORE DUTY	Pre-Shift Checks • Battery fully charged • Date/time correct • Lens clean and unobstructed • Red recording badge clipped on and visible • Camera seated securely, facing forward • Test record/stop function	Do NOT • Start shift if camera is faulty — report immediately • Wear camera without red badge (unless directed by Management) • Use personal devices to record duty
DURING DUTY	Activate camera IMMEDIATELY for • Any public liability job • Any incident involving a member of the public • Shoplifter detainment or confrontation • Intoxicated or aggressive individuals • Any threat to personal safety • First aid or medical emergency • Criminal activity or suspected offence • Any situation likely to require evidence • Advise subject you are recording (if safe to do so)	Do NOT • Record private conversations outside lawful purpose • Use BWC for personal purposes • Tamper with, delete, or alter footage • Deactivate during an active incident • Remove camera without authorisation
AFTER DUTY	End-of-Shift Duties • Upload all footage to secure AMS drive • File in correct year/month/site folder • Confirm upload complete before leaving • Return camera and badge to designated storage • Report any technical issues or incidents to Supervisor	Do NOT • Copy footage to personal devices • Leave footage on camera overnight • Transfer footage outside AMS procedures • Delete or overwrite any footage
